Mathematical Sciences Research Institute

Greetings to all who have gathered for your twenty-fifth anniversary celebration.

I applaud your outstanding efforts to increase society's understanding of mathematics and the impact it has on our lives. Your work with mathematicians has had a great influence on their field, and I'm especially impressed by your support of programs that help the general public – and young people in particular – recognize the importance of math.

Thank you for providing an enriching setting where people from around the world gather to share their insights and research. From Nobel laureates and talented students to award-winning playwrights and comedians, many have come together to celebrate and advance mathematics thanks to your commendable efforts.

On behalf of all Californians, I extend my gratitude for your remarkable achievements in the mathematical sciences and my best wishes for another twenty-five years of fantastic success.

Sincerely,

Arnold Schwarzenegger
