

Jim Crowley

Executive Director, SIAM

215-382-9811

jcrowley@siam.org

Everything you did before (and more!) but with a new financial model Scholarly societies and publishers are being asked to uphold the high standards of scholarly publishing, while adding new features, but to move away from a subscription model in order to provide free access to all. The mathematical sciences, with no history of grant support for publications over the past two decades, face a particularly difficult challenge. We will explore some of the issues faced in a transition away from subscriptions.