

Dimers and families of Cauchy-Riemann operators

Julien Dubedat
Columbia University

We explain how the analysis of families of discrete CR operators and their scaling limits may be used to study dimer observables, in particular singular (electric and magnetic) correlators. Applications to Ising correlations are discussed.